PREFACE.

THE present volume of AMERICAN BOOK-PRICES CURRENT records 8562 items from 110 sales of books and autographs at auction. These 110 catalogues represented 215 days' sales, and comprised upwards of 80,000 lots, of which only about one tenth find a record in our compilation. Most of this large proportion of discarded lots sold for less than $3 00 per lot A few selling at higher prices were thrown out on account of imperfect descriptions in the catalogues, making it difficult to identify the books Books in print, selling at or near our limit of price, have been for the most part discarded in order to prevent our volume becoming too extended.

An especial effort has been made to include all American books, local history, genealogy, etc , selling at or above our limit of price. This year, for the first time, we include a few volumes below that limit, principally first editions of the greatest American authors, favorites of collectors, and whose rarer books sell at high prices. These have been mostly selected from the Bierstadt and Roos sales.

The arrangement is identical with that of last year's volume. Books are entered under the author where the author is known, otherwise under the first important word of title, or, in rare instances, principally local history and biography, under the subject. publications and transactions of Clubs and Societies will be found, usually, under the name of the society, but sometimes under the name of the author, or of the city where the society is located. Periodicals will, for the most part, be found under their titles, in a few cases under the name of their editor. Some translations are entered under the name of the translator instead of the author, being most likely to be sought for under that head. Different books by the same author are, for the most part, arranged alphabetically, the separate publications preceding the collected works Different editions of the same book are arranged according to date of publication The autographs are, of course, arranged alphabetically by authors

The date given under each lot is that of the first day of the sale The full period covered by the sale, as well as some note as to its character, may be found by referring to the chronological list of sales following this Preface The number in parentheses is the original lot number in the sale catalogue. Prices are for the lot, not the price per volume, as the books are sold in the auction room.

The abbreviations used in describing the autographs are familiar to all collectors. A L S means Autograph Letter Signed, A N S means Autograph Note Signed, L S. means Letter Signed, the signature only being autograph, D S. means Document Signed, M O C means Member of Old (Continental) Congress.

Three sales which took place in Chicago, and one at the American Art Galleries, in New York, are included in this volume. Neither of the preceding volumes included sales at these places If these four sales are deducted from our total of 110, we have 106, the precise number of sales recorded in the volume for 1896

Although the number of sales in the two years are identical, those of the present volume are bibliographically of much greater importance At least three sales, those of the Sewall, Bierstadt, and Frederickson libraries, were more important than any sales of the preceding year.

The theological library of the late William R. Williams was the largest library dispersed during the year, the two catalogues aggregating 6335 lots This was, no doubt, one of the best private theological libraries in the country. The books brought absurdly low prices, showing either that there are no collectors of theology, or that they have no available funds with which to make purchases

A collection of Americana, apparently a lot of books brought together from various sources, was sold in Philadelphia on October 21st. It included a number of interesting pieces, but few of first-rate importance.

The library of the late Henry F. Sewall was sold by Bangs, in November, December, and January, 4240 lots being described in three catalogues. It was a large collection, including an important array of titles in early English books, editions of the classics, and books of engravings by early masters. Many were imperfect, and others in poor condition, and, in most cases, the prices realized are slight guide to the real value of desirable copies of the books The extra illustrated volumes were especially remarkable for the high quality of the inserted engravings. Few, if any, sold for sufficient to cover the cost of the extra illustrations.

The highest price of the year was realized on December 2, at a sale at Libbie's This was $1250.00, which sum was paid for one of the three known copies of an edition of the "Book of Common Prayer," printed in London in 1788. Benjamin Franklin wrote the preface and abridged some portions, which fact alone gave it interest. The value of the copy was greatly added to by the autograph and ownership interest connected with it. The price was probably a surprise to many, to no one more so than to the owner

The library of Richard Riker, sold by Bangs on December 8 and 9, included a complete set of the publications of the Grolier Club These books seem to hold their own, notwithstanding that a comparatively large number have been put upon the market

The library of William Matthews, the bookbinder, was sold by Bangs, February 10 and 11 The books, for the most part, brought high prices, especially a few choice items of Americana and books bound by Mr Matthews His copy of the Grolier Club edition of Irving's Knickerbocker's New York, elaborately bound by himself, a specimen of which he was especially proud, sold for $550 00, being bought by his son.

The library of Edward Hale Bierstadt, Treasurer of the Grolier Club, was disposed of by Bangs in April The catalogue, which was printed at the De Vinne Press, was in two parts The collection comprised about 3500 volumes, including a choice collection of Early English Poetry and Drama and long series of first editions of modern authors, English and American The books were, for the most part, in fine condition, and good prices were realized

The collection of first editions of American authors, brought together by Mr Christian P Roos, was sold by Libbie, in April The collection was very extensive, but the rarest books of the greater authors were conspicuous by their absence Mr Roos had, it is said, parted with some of his best pieces at private sale.

The library of the late Charles W. Frederickson, long known in auction rooms as "Fred," was dispersed by Bangs in May He had for many years been an omnivorous collector of the books and autographs of Percy Bysshe Shelley, and material relating to the poet, and the collection in this line was one of the finest in the world The first editions, which were mostly in first-class condition, brought high prices, but the autographs, compared with ruling London quotations, went low The most notable book was a copy of the first edition of "Queen Mab," with autograph inscription, presenting the volume to Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin. This sold for $615 00 It was from the Ives sale, where it brought only $190 00, no mention then having been made in the catalogue of its autograph interest The later editions of "Queen Mab," of which there was a long series, as well as most of the Shelleyana, sold for extremely low prices Such books interest few collectors. Aside from the Shelleys there were a number of other books of more than ordinary importance, including first editions of Keats, Lamb, Byron, etc, some books from the library of Charles Lamb, with manuscript notes by him or by S T. Coleridge, and a collection of Shakespeariana
